Diwrnod Shwmae

On Tuesday, 15th October, Bryn Celynnog celebrated Shwmae Day, perfect opportunity to embrace our language and culture. Did we make Shwmae Day a fun and “delicious” occasion? We certainly did! The Welsh School Council organised a stall selling some of the tastiest pancakes and cupcakes (a big thank you to our Year 11 pupils and other teachers for making the pancakes!). We also gave everyone the chance to win three plush dragons by guessing their names. Congratulations to Hayden Bailey, Megan Sheppard, and Angaleena Deepu for their winning guesses!

The stall proved to be incredibly popular, with all of our stock selling out in just minutes. It was also wonderful to hear people greeting each other and using other Welsh phrases throughout the day. This is something we should continue to love and practice as often as possible! Overall, it was a day to remember.

Diwrnod Shwmae oedd y dydd Mawrth ‘ma. Cyfle perffaith i wneud y mwyaf o’n iaith a diwylliant. Chawson ni hwyl a sbri ac amser “blasus” ar y dydd ‘ma? Cawson! Fel cyngor ysgol y Gymraeg, cwrddon ni â’n gilydd a chreuon stondin yn gwerthu rhai o’r crempogion a theisienau fwya blasus (diolch i ddisgyblion blwyddyn 11 ac athrawon arall am y crempogion!). Hefyd, rhoddon ni cyfle i bawb i ennill draig plwsh gan ddyfalu ei henw; ennillodd tri person, Hayden Bailey, Megan Sheppard and Angaleena Deepu – da iawn pawb. Yn bendant profwyd y stondin bod yn boblogaidd iawn, ein cynhyrch i gyd yn mynd ar ôl funudau’n unig. Hefyd, roedd yn arbennig i glywed pobl yn dweud “helo” wrth eu gilydd tra’n defnyddio’r Gymraeg. Dyma rhywbeth y ddylen ni parhau i garu i wneud mor aml â phosib! Ar y cyfan, dydd i gofio oedd e.

Bryn's Debating Prowess

As part of preparing for forthcoming competitions with the ESU (English Speaking Union), three of Bryn Celynnog's Year 10 students recently took part in an on-line Novice Debate against Christ College, Brecon (7th October).

Helena Berry-Smith, Sasha Cook and Amy Algren-Carter were team proposition debating the motion 'This House believes in legalising physician-assisted suicide.' This is a particularly relevant topic which is currently being debated in parliament and one which is supported by Dame Esther Rantzen.

The team were able to research and prepare some information ahead of the debate but had to respond to Points of Interest/Information raised during the competition, use the skill of rebuttal and try to summarise the opposition's argument.

Helena introduce the team's stance on the argument and delivered her points well. Sashsa then had to respond to what Christ College offered as an opposition to this motion with Amy concluding the debate by summarising the team's position in support of legalising physician-assisted suicide. As always, the students worked hard as a team but unfortunately team opposition won the debate and proceeded to the next round.

Next up for these keen debaters is a public speaking competition, again organised by the ESU where they are able to choose their topic for a list of suggestions and the speaker will be paired with the chair and questioner from another school. I am sure they will embrace this invaluable experience and represent Bryn Celynnog in the best manner possible.

Pob Lwc!

Bryn's on Top

During the summer, Years 7 and 8 (now Years 8 and 9) took part in a national reading challenge called The National Read-Aloud Challenge. Over the six weeks summer break, our wonderful pupils were competing with schools, not only across Wales, but across the whole of the United Kingdom.

The competition organisers shortlisted Bryn Celynnog as one of the top schools in Wales and we have recently been informed that we have won the regional award for Wales.

This is a testament to the hard work of our wonderful pupils who read an astronomical amount over their summer break and they should be congratulated for their effort and commitment in achieving this sought-after award.

In January, two members of staff and the two best performing pupils from the challenge will have the opportunity to participate in an all-expenses paid trip to London to attend an awards ceremony hosted by TV Presenter Claire Balding. We cannot wait to share our exciting day with you all.

Eisteddfod Poem

This fabulously patriotic poem was written by Evan Pearce in Year 7. This was a submission to an Eisteddfod competition at his primary school where he was awarded the prestigious title of Bard.

Da iawn, Evan, for this incredible poem!

*The proud and amazing Castle Coch peeks noisily over the A470,
The old and wrinkly history is long gone,
As its high towers touch the sky above,
We all say proudly: We love Wales.*

*The historic Cwm Colliery, standing tall, vines taking over,
The rusty pithead lying its head for a 37 year long nap,
The coal peaks over the once active centre of coal mining in Wales,
We all say proudly: We love Wales.*

*Colourful flowers wave at passersby on the bladed grass of the Welsh valleys,
A flow of red and verdant greens, sleep softly by the sheep,
Cute cows lying in the hillside,
We all say proudly: We love Wales.*

*Exciting beach trips down Barry, waves glee with fun,
Golden yellow sand smiles when the children dig,
Flocculent white clouds flow over the head, smirking with wittiness,
We all say proudly: We love Wales.*

Maths at Cardiff University

During the summer holidays, I undertook a three-week research placement in the Mathematics Department at Cardiff University. I developed my own mathematical model to describe defects in liquid crystal films and wrote an extensive thesis on the topic using LaTeX. I applied mathematics from A-level lessons, such as vectors and calculus, while also learning new abstract concepts like the 'curl' and 'grad' functions in linear algebra, and how they apply to real-world situations.

This was a once-in-a-lifetime experience: it clarified the career path I want to pursue, boosted my confidence in using mathematics, and exposed me to mathematical fields beyond the A-level syllabus. I would highly recommend a Nuffield research project to anyone. Not only was it enjoyable, but it's proving beneficial now as I apply to university, giving me extra-curricular material to discuss in my personal statement.

$$\nabla \cdot (\mathbf{nn}^T) = \frac{1}{2} \left(\frac{\partial(n_1^2)}{\partial x} + \frac{\partial(n_2^2)}{\partial y} \right), \quad (15)$$

with

$$|\nabla \cdot (\mathbf{nn}^T)| = \sqrt{\left[\frac{\partial(n_1^2)}{\partial x} + \frac{\partial(n_2^2)}{\partial y} \right]^2 + \left[\frac{\partial(n_1 n_2)}{\partial x} + \frac{\partial(n_2 n_1)}{\partial y} \right]^2} \quad (16)$$

As an example, when $s = +1/2$ and $\phi = \psi$, such that

$$p_1 = \cos \psi = \frac{x}{\sqrt{x^2 + y^2}}, \quad p_2 = \sin \psi = \frac{y}{\sqrt{x^2 + y^2}}, \quad (17)$$

with $(x, y)^T$ the position vector along the direction of $\mathbf{p} = (p_1, p_2)^T$, we have

$$\mathbf{nn}^T = \begin{pmatrix} p_1^2 & p_1 p_2 \\ p_1 p_2 & p_2^2 \end{pmatrix} = \frac{1}{x^2 + y^2} \begin{pmatrix} x^2 & xy \\ xy & y^2 \end{pmatrix}, \quad (18)$$

$$\nabla \cdot (\mathbf{nn}^T) = \frac{1}{x^2 + y^2} \begin{pmatrix} x \\ y \end{pmatrix} = \frac{1}{\sqrt{x^2 + y^2}} \begin{pmatrix} p_1 \\ p_2 \end{pmatrix}, \quad (19)$$

Cyber Security Competition: Year 10-12 Students Take on the Challenge!

During the week beginning 14th October, five teams of students from Years 10 to 12 participated in an exciting cyber security competition. This event was organised by the University of South Wales, the University of the West of England, and Cardiff University, and it put our students' problem-solving and technical skills to the test.

The competition involved tackling 12 challenging tasks, covering a wide range of cyber security topics. From solving tricky brain teasers to reverse engineering Python code to crack encryption keys, the students faced a variety of scenarios that tested their knowledge and creativity.

Each of the five teams, made up of four students, submitted their entries on 18th October, and we are incredibly proud of their hard work and determination. If any of our teams make it to the second round, they will have the chance to travel to Cardiff University in March 2025 for the next stage of the competition.

We will know before Christmas if any of our teams progress. Good luck to all involved!

Year 13 CPS Workshop

Last month, Year 13 students had the fantastic opportunity to participate in a Law Workshop led by a CPS Prosecutor, focusing on evaluating the effectiveness of the Crown Prosecution Service.

This is a key area of the criminal specification for their course, and there was no better way to learn about the inner workings of the CPS than from a seasoned expert. We were fortunate to have the Chief Crown Prosecutor join the class, and she immediately engaged the students by dividing them into groups.

Each group was assigned a specific research topic, which they later presented to the class for discussion. Together, the groups created a timeline of the CPS, highlighting its advantages and disadvantages. This collaborative exercise provided valuable material for the essays the students had been working on.

The workshop was highly appreciated, and the students are now looking forward to their upcoming trip to Cardiff Crown Courts next month to continue their exploration of the criminal justice system.

Uniformed Protective Services at 6th Form

This month, Year 12 and Year 13 students had the exciting opportunity to visit the University of South Wales for a team-building workshop connected to the public service industry. The workshop forms part of their non-examination assessment for the Uniformed Protective Services Course.

Students were fortunate to participate in an innovative new workshop system called 'Hydra'. In this system, they were grouped into teams and placed in technology-enhanced suites, where they awaited an online crime scenario involving the police. As video links were sent, students had to work together to decide how to respond to the situation.

The interactive whiteboard tables were a big hit, allowing students to visually brainstorm possible strategies that the police could implement. The day was a great success, with all students fully engaged and thoroughly enjoying the immersive 'Hydra' experience.

RRS James Cook

On Friday, 18th October, 18 sixth form students and their teachers had a once-in-a-lifetime opportunity to tour the RRS James Cook, a royal research ship. They learned about various science, technical, and ship-based careers, as well as the career pathways associated with scientific missions. We were amazed by the sheer size of the ship and the array of scientific equipment on board.

During the tour, we met several crew members and scientists who shared insights into their jobs and the career paths that led them there. Their passion and enthusiasm for their work were infectious, leaving us inspired to imagine careers that involve traveling the world while conducting important scientific research.

Oceanography, an exciting branch of environmental science, tackles some of the major planetary challenges of our time, such as climate change. The range of careers within oceanographic research is much broader than one might expect. Oceanographers studying remote and extreme ocean environments may spend weeks at sea collecting data. Mariners, engineers, and technicians are essential to the broader team that makes these scientific missions possible. Career pathways range from cadet training to apprenticeships in technology and engineering.

We had an incredible visit and even had the chance to see Doctor Who being filmed in Cardiff Bay!

A big thank you to the Natural Environment Research Council (NERC), in partnership with the National Oceanography Centre (NOC) and Techniquest Cardiff, for organizing the event.

Expressive Arts Events

We've had a fantastic month in the Expressive Arts Faculty! We took a trip to Cardiff Museum, where pupils learned about the art of the 'selfie' and got to see Vincent Van Gogh's self-portrait. They also participated in a workshop on the history of portraiture and even tried their hand at drawing their own self-portraits. While we were there, we explored other exhibits, including dinosaurs, fossils, and crystals. All of the pupils were outstanding, and the museum staff even complimented them on how well they represented our school. Well done to everyone!

Our Crochet Club has also begun, led by an incredibly talented group of Year 8 students. They are teaching both staff and students some basic techniques and are focusing on creating decorations for the school Christmas tree. If anyone would like to join, please head over to the art department on Monday lunchtimes to take part!

Year 7 Drama Club has successfully auditioned for a pantomime titled Once Upon a Time and has begun rehearsing and learning their lines. It's fantastic to see so many students involved. The pantomime will be performed in December, with more information to follow.

All music clubs have resumed and are rehearsing for our Christmas Carol Service on Wednesday, 11th December. It's lovely to see so many pupils using their break times to practise in the department. There's still time to get involved, everyone is welcome!

A Thrilling Adventure: Our Trip to the UK Rock

As part of the Pupil Engagement Programme, a group of students recently embarked on an exciting adventure to the UK Rock Summit Centre. The goal of the trip was to help us build resilience, gain confidence, and enhance our engagement by giving us experiences we might not usually have and it definitely delivered!

At the UK Rock Summit Centre, we had a blast trying rock climbing, high ropes, and a variety of other activities that really challenged us. And it wasn't just the students, our teachers joined in on the fun, tackling the same challenges. Some of them were much more nervous than we expected! It was pretty funny watching them try to stay calm while facing their fears (even though they pretended it was no big deal!).

Curtis Farr, shared his thoughts regarding the day:

"Here are my favourite parts: my friends and I got to hang out and try all the climbing stuff together, and it actually helped me overcome my fear of heights. But the best part? Coming back down with the mechanical lowering system, it made me feel like a superhero! The thing I didn't like? The outdoor course. I kept getting stuck and couldn't figure out how to get back up. When I finally did, I forgot I was strapped in and thought I was going to fall. But I still went on it twice, which was kind of weird, but yeah, those are my highlights from the trip!"

Overall, the trip was a massive success. Not only did we get to spend time with friends and laugh at each other's nervous moments, but we also accomplished things we never thought we could, which really helped boost our confidence.

If you missed this trip, don't worry! There are plenty more engagement trips coming up. Be sure to check your Microsoft Teams account so you don't miss out on the next adventure!

Happy Halloween from HQ

A variety of activities have been happening at HQ in celebration of Halloween. The building has been transformed with spooky decorations in preparation for a Halloween-themed coffee morning with parents, scheduled for Friday, 25th October, from 10:00 am to 11:20 am. Everyone is encouraged to come in costume for the occasion!

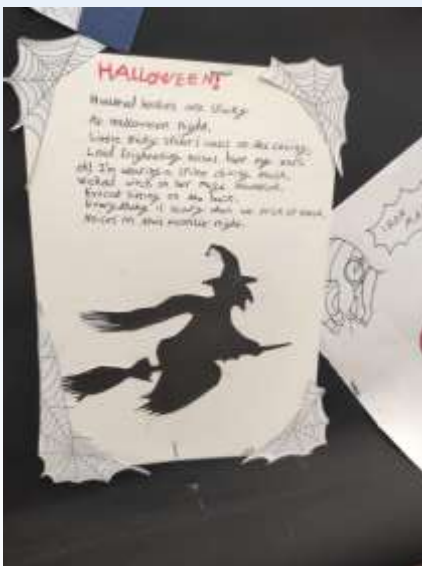

The pupils also enjoyed a pumpkin-picking adventure, bringing home pumpkins to carve during the half-term break in time for Halloween. It's hard to say who had more fun, the staff or the children!

R2L celebrate Halloween

R2L have been working on some fantastic displays for Halloween. Students who attend the provision have been learning lots about the history of Halloween and creating some engaging and informative displays to share this information with others.

Keep up the good work!

Rewards are an acknowledgement of pupils' hard work and effort both in the classroom and around the school. There is a constant expectation that all pupils will be praised and rewarded. Pupils will be notified when they receive positive points by their classroom teacher and can monitor their score via the ClassCharts website or App. Positive points also link directly to the Rewards Store in ClassCharts. Pupils can purchase their chosen item from the app and collect it in school. The current list of available items is listed in the Rewards Store.
